GENERAL INFORMATION

The Asia Pacific Conference on the Built Environment (APCBE) was formally organized by the Malaysia Chapter and Singapore Association of ASHRAE members as a biennial event. In response to growing technology in HVAC&R, the scopes of the Conference have been expanded and became ASHRAE Region XIII regular agenda. It is hosted alternately by the ASHRAE chapters in the region and held in cooperation with many sponsoring institutions within the region and other parts of the world.

The growth of world's population and the increase demand of better standard of living have increased the consumption of energy. This conference provides an opportunity for exchanging knowledge, sharing of experiences, information on new developments and future prospects in the area of HVAC & R and other high performance building technologies among researchers and practitioners.

This two days conference is planned to be attended by around 300 participants from industry, government, building designer, research institution and universities.
